A CASE OF PIFTY-FIFTY

Don't Poison Baby.

ORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregorio, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, commissions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are discuised, and sold under the name of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. of Chas. H. Fletcher. Genuine Casteria always bears the signature of Cat H. Plateker

Hope is "The Girl He Couldn't Buy." Kitty, also, is not for sale.

The villain, so Hope tells Kitty, has offered her "lots of money, automobiles, beautiful clothes and rings." "Gee!" says hearty, apple-cheeked Kitty, "all's I've been offered wuz a glass of beer and a trip to Coney

Does it seem crude? Well, maybe so, but not so coarse as many plainly called spades that have gone over the ootlights of the great Broadway theatres in the past five years; and not only that, but ringing truer.

"Treasure Island" is everything that we want in a pirate story. The villains are killed and the treasure is found, and there's a map of the island with drawings of ships and blowing whales. In "The Girl He Couldn't Buy" the Hains are defeated, the papers are covered and all ends well. Right at the finale of the first art Right at the finale of the first are in the last ten words spoken—homely, simple words by the detective, the landlady and Hope—is a bit of plathat is so very human that it pulls at the heart strings and gets you goed and hard. Somehow or other it reveals the "incommunicable touch" surely, as does all fine acting; otherwise it never could have come over and beyond the footlights and away back and upward in that great Lexington Theatre hast night and made us all mellow-hearted and moist-eyel. The "incommunicable touch" Ellen Terry had it; John Cope has it.
